How we began...

In 1898, a 20-year-old man from Zacatecas, Mexico, named Manuel Rodriguez came to Bryan to work on the railroads...

He was quite a sight as he stood 6'2" tall and walked down Bryan's Main Street. The locals were intrigued by the large sombrero he wore.

Grandpa Manuel worked and saved money. He opened the first known Mexican Restaurant behind the Ben Knox Saloon, near the railroad depot in downtown Bryan, and operated it for 20 years. His homemade Mexican Stew, our now famous Chili con Carne, and other dishes were very popular with the locals and travelers who stepped off the train at the nearby depot.

In 1978 his grandson Richard A. Rodriguez and his wife Beatrice opened the doors to Casa Rodriguez with the blessings of Paul L. and Consuelo (Chelo) Rodriguez. It was located on South College in the old Buccaneer.

In 1981 Casa Rodriguez moved downtown to 212 N. Bryan (Sam's Luncheonette). After many years of hard work, dedication and the demand for more space and hours, 300 N. Bryan was purchased, where we are today. The next generation, Debbie & Tommy Montalbano, have joined the family to continue the tradition of serving up the best Mexican food around.

Thanks to Grandpa Manuel and Mama Chelo's recipes, the Brazos Valley can continue to enjoy great food.

Welcome to Casa Rodriguez, a family tradition since 1978. Thank you for your patronage and we hope you enjoy your meal.
